RUBBER

New Uses Found Rubber Roadways A Better Market

THE Rubber Growers' Association is trying to stimulate the consumption of rubber by advocating increasing uses of the raw product. The sphere of its usefulness is therefore, being enlarged, and new uses for the increasing supplies of the raw material are being found. The objects to which the association has dedicated its recent efforts are being quickly accomplished and new life infused into the movement. It is due mainly to the efforts of this association that rubber road pavements are becoming popular in Europe and the day appears not distant when we in Shanghai might be experimenting with this new process. The work carried out, for instance, by the Rubber Roadways, Limited, is of a highly interesting nature, and if the experiments are successful and could be brought within the bounds of commercial development, a very large use for rubber will be found.

Rubber flooring and roadways are becoming popular, and various counties in England are experimenting with them. In this connection it is interesting to trace the use of rubber in road pavements. A well-known rubber planter of the old school happened to be lying ill in a nursing home in the West End of London. A member of the Rubber Growers' Association called to see him, and the noise being terrific a proposal was made to cover the roadway along which most of the houses were used as nursing homes, with thick sheets of rubber. This was to make the roadway noiseless as regards the traffic. The proposal contained the germinal idea, which was subsequently developed into the scheme for street paving by means of blocks of rubber, to which so much thought, experiment and labor have been given by the Rubber Roadways Company, Ltd.

MANY NEW USES

The public today is being interested in a great many ways in the use of rubber. Rubber soles are being used in boots and shoes in an increasing quantity, and in many other ways splendid work is being done to increase the sale of plantation rubber. The new uses to which the commodity can be put to are so many and so varied, that no one could fail to realise the benefits that are certain to result from this "pegging away" propaganda work of rubber growers of the world.

The general belief is that rubber will be required in ever increasing quantity. The rather serious shake-out which the rubber market has received in the past few months, has suddenly given place to quite an optimistic feeling. Some experts seem to share the opinion that for every penny rubber remains below 1s. 6d. per pound for three consecutive months the price in future quarters must go 2d. per pound above 1s. 6d., and that will take place, whether forward sales are made by producers now or hereafter.

The argument in support of this takes the following form. The more forward contracts are made for raw rubber by supplying consumers with their wants ahead, whether from stock or production, the more will the supply be curtailed by stopping releases. In other words, rubber estates will either get a higher price later on for a smaller production, or a nominal rate of just over 1s. 6d. per pound for a larger crop.

MARKET LOOKS UP

It would, therefore, seem that the price of 1s. 6d. per pound for rubber is a matter of weeks. The market is already beginning to look up and although there are slight recessions now and again these should not terrify investors. The prospects are, indeed, bright for rubber companies of Shanghai. Some of the Shanghai rubber estates are justly proud of low costs, notably, the Langkat and other companies, and this the other less fortunate are trying to emulate. Even though very low costs are not a feature of the working of many rubber estates they stand at a figure that is still considered good and should enable fair dividends to be distributed at the end of the official year. The working costs of almost every rubber estate registered in Shanghai are low, and the management in experienced hands. There is also no longer any shortage of money for development of the estates, while capitalisation per acre is in most cases low.

The reduction of release to 60 percent, which came into operation on August 1 last means that rubber

The British attitude is now described as hesitating and the French as unfavorable. The Japanese alone are said to have expressed their willingness to take part in such a meeting.

Sanitary Inspector Veit Gets Honorable Acquittal In Market Bribery Action

Mixed Court Halts Case, Holding That Defendant Has Alibi And Evidence Of Complainants Cannot Be Credited

Remarking that there was no use in continuing further with the case, that the defense had established an alibi and that the Court could not believe the testimony of the principal witnesses for the prosecution, Assessor Allman and Magistrate Kwan of the Mixed Court yesterday halted the bribery action brought against Mr. Peter Veit, Health Department Sanitary Inspector, and ordered him honorably acquitted of the charge.

The Court's action came late in the afternoon, after considerable evidence had been given for the defense and, after the defendant had taken the witness box and indignantly denied the allegations made against him, producing documentary evidence in addition to the testimony of other witnesses to show that he could not have been in the spots alleged at the time the bribes were claimed to have been received.

"I have never received a cent as a bribe from anyone!" the Inspector indignantly declared. "The police have investigated and have not found the smallest black spot against my record. Why should they take up and press these charges when these people—the lowest class in the market— attack me?"

TWO BRIBES ALLEGED

The charges against Inspector Veit were made by the keepers of cooked food stalls at the Hongkew Market after they had been ordered to move their stalls from the ground floor to the top story of the building. They then claimed that as long ago as February 1922 they were informed that they must move and that they collected the sum of $410 among themselves and two of their number paid the sum over to Inspector Veit in his office at the market. A further $100 they declared was paid over to the Inspector in his home at 9 North Szechuen Road on April 6 of this year.

Mr. J. G. Priestwood and Mr. W. S. Fleming defended Inspector Veit in the case and Mr. Eardley Maitland prosecuted for the police.

The first witness called when the case was resumed yesterday was Sanitary Inspector H. G. B. Gow, defendant's assistant at the market, who stated that on February 27, 1922, the date on which the larger bribe was alleged to have passed, Inspector Veit would have been at the slaughter house from 2 p.m. until at least 4:30 and possibly until 5 or 6 o'clock, as could be seen from the recorded slaughter house business for that day. The complainants testified that the money was paid at the market at about 3 o'clock.

Mr. Richard Neumann, well-known restaurant and market proprietor, testified that on April 6, the date cited by the prosecution for the $100 transaction, Inspectors Veit and Gow both had tiffin at his restaurant, leaving there about 1 p.m. and going directly back to the market—just across the way. He saw the defendant again at the Market about 2 o'clock. He was able to fix the date as it was the day the new market opened and he was on hand because he had applied to establish two stalls there. This evidence was put in by the defense to show that Inspector Veit could not have been at his home at the time the Chinese witness for the prosecution claimed to have taken the money to him there.

DEFENDANT IN BOX

Called to the box in his own defense, Inspector Veit stated that he held diplomas from the Royal Sanitary Institute of London and other sanitary and hygienic institutes. He came to Shanghai to join the Health Department a little more than twelve years ago from Mukden, where he had been engaged in bubonic plague prevention work at a salary of $1,000 a month.

Mr. Priestwood, prefacing the query with an apology, then

NEW LAW WOULD MAKE CHANGES IN COURT HERE

Creates Assistant Judge And Calls For Assessors Instead Of Jurors

Copies of the bill changing the status of the United States Court for China which will be introduced at the next session of Congress have just been received in Shanghai, and show that several important changes in the Court will be made if the act becomes a law.

The bill provides that the Court will in the future be under the supervision of the United States Attorney-General and that in cases of capital crimes or of civil suits which would ordinarily be tried before a jury in the United States two assessors shall be named to sit with the judge hearing the case.

The bill also provides that the United States Commissioner shall have the power to hear any cases or make any orders which the Judge might make in chambers in vacation, or act in his place should he be disqualified or absent.

The complete text of the bill is as follows:

JUGO-SLAVIA IS QUIET AS ITALY TAKES OVER FIUME

Relations Maintained Between Two Nations

STAND EXPAINED

Rome Will Abide By Rapallo Treaty, Is Claim

(Exclusive China Press)

Geneva, Sept. 17.—Jugo-Slav sources in Rome confirm the report that relations between Italy and Jugo-Slavia have not been broken off as a result of Mussolini's latest step with regard to Fiume.

The Giornale D'Italia, in an apparently inspired article, sums up the situation as follows:

First, Italy has not annexed Fiume, nor does she intend to do so as is proved by the fact that a few days ago by common consent with Jugo-Slavia, Italy had the treaty of Rapallo registered at the League of Nations.

Second, it is incorrect to say that Italy by the appointment of General Giardini has "gone to Fiume," for she has been there ever since the treaty of Rapallo was signed.

Third, Italy has not broken off negotiations with Jugo-Slavia Indeed, she renewed her invitation to Belgrade to continue them.

Fourth, Italy wants Fiume harbor to be managed by a world commission and wants to put an end to her long and costly occupation.

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Sept. 17.—General Giardino departed for Fiume today.

The fact that the new Governor was wearing mufti and not carrying his uniform is regarded as an indication that his mission will be entirely confined to civil administration of the city and will have no military object.

It is desired to maintain friendly relations with Serbia, but it is felt that further postponement of a settlement on the part of Yugo-Slavia cannot be tolerated especially in view of the plight of Fiume, which, according to all accounts, is on the verge of starvation.

SHOULD NOT FORM NEW GOVERNMENT HERE, SAYS TANG

Noted Statesman Disapproves Of Li's Attempt, But Favors Plan Of Hotung

In an interview with newspapermen in Shanghai, Mr. Tang Shao-yi, former Premier, yesterday openly disapproved of the proposal of General Li Yuan-hung to form a government in Shanghai, but favored the round-table conference suggested by Sir Robert Hotung, the Hongkong leader.

"I have never endorsed the formation of a government in Shanghai. We have already two of them in China, one in the North and the other in South. If we have another here, we would have a third; and it would appear to be most ridiculous to have three governments in one country," said Mr. Tang.

"Although General Li planned to organise a government here when he first came, after studying the local conditions more closely, I believe he has now given up this idea. Of course, I was never consulted on my appointment as his premier."

Asked what he thought of Sir Robert's peace plan, Mr. Tang said: "His plan is one which I have been advocating all the time and I hope his efforts will be crowned with success. Mr. Hotung is an ardent advocate of domestic peace. Although he is a British subject, being born in Hongkong, he has the welfare and interest of the nation at heart and in coming to Shanghai to complete his plan, he has the purest of motives.

"Since the militarists in the country refuse to lay down their arms and talk peace, the best method now is to gather them together and find out at what cost they are willing to refrain from cutting each others' throats."

Hitting The Trail For A Home In Shanghai

Be It Ever So Humble You Can't Find One

By Irene Corbally Kuhn

Astor House, Shanghai

Dear Leinani:

Yes, we have no house yet. It is a little while now since I wrote you of high hopes on the high seas en route here. Meantime, I have looked at several houses and alleged apartments and am still reeling from the blows. Shanghai, it would appear, has been visited in our absence by an army of silver-tongued orators out of speaking jobs, who have gone into the advertising business, transferring their shining talents to writing want ads that certainly catch the eye, hold the attention and send one galloping off from one mirage to another. Thus far, though, their glib efforts in behalf of glibber landlords, in our direction, have been as fruitless as an orchard in the devastated districts.

Our hopes are all bruised and disfigured from being dashed here, there and elsewhere so often. We have reached the conclusion that some architects here had an auction sale of all their ancient and decrepit unused plans and that a set of playful landlords bought them all up. Another set of still more playful contractors, it would seem, put up the houses. The answer is a big joke on the prospective tenant for of all the back-yard-on-the-front-porch and roof-in-the-cellar arrangements in house planning and construction, Shanghai is the gnat's knickers.

THE PLAYFUL PROSPECTUS

For days now we have been paying real money to ricsha coolies to chase down ads that read like this:

"TO LET: Beautiful unfurnished modern house in lovely neighborhood. Living room, dining room, two bedrooms, servants' quarters, kitchen, garden and garage. Moderate rental."

This sort of innocent hope-raiser has as many catches as a cold has coughs. Let us, gentle reader, consider the "lovely neighborhood." The first house of the sort described in the ad. above to which we rushed madly was in a lovely neighborhood—a lovely Chinese neighborhood. The living and bedroom windows overlooked a choice piece of vacant real estate, entirely submerged in ten or twelve feet of green slime that breeds mosquitoes with un-sangerlike profligacy.

The view from the other windows showed an expanse of Chinese roofs and alleys. The roofs are picturesque enough but the teeming alleys and the mangy clotheslines inhabited by dingy blue pants and green gray unmentionables are not.

Still another view of the lovely neighborhood included an unobstructed expanse of servants' quarters in the rear of the houses in front for the ad man neglected to say that the house was in the "back row."

In one respect, at least, the ad man is scrupulously honest. The rooms are generally there. Of course, one may have to search for an unimportant and little-used spot like the kitchen but if you look hard enough and far enough

Governor Answers Challenge With Martial Law Proclamation

(Reuter's Service)

Oklahoma City, Sept. 17.—Martial law has been enforced throughout the State and the military have taken control, following a proclamation by Governor Walton in response to a challenge by the Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, who declared that the State authorities would never be able to break up the power of his organisation.

The proclamation declared that hundreds of men and women had been severely beaten in Oklohama and the Klan was responsible for these outrages. It alleged that police, sheriffs and even some of the judges of the District Court were shielding the Klansmen.

An armed bodyguard has been formed to protect Governor Walton. It is alleged that several members of the Legislature have planned to kidnap him and attempt to impeach him at an extra session. Governor Walton threatens to imprison all members of the Legislature who attempt to hold an extra session, and also threatens military censorship of the press.

TEMBLOR IN CALIFORNIA; FIRE RAGES IN BERKELEY

Series Of Shocks Are Recorded At Eureka

CITY IS ABLAZE

Dynamite Is Used In Effort To Stop Holocaust

(Reuter's Service)

Eureka, Cal., Sept. 17.—A sharp earthquake shock was felt here today. It began with mild vibrations which increased in violence and then ended abruptly.

(Reuter's Service)

Berkeley, Cal., Sept. 18.—A great fire is raging here. Hundreds of homes, including those of more than half of the faculty of the University of California, have been destroyed. Dynamite is being used in a desperate effort to check the flames, which are spreading to the business section of the town.

Berkeley is a city of approximately 60,000 in Alameda County, California, just across the bay from San Francisco. Thousands of San Franciscans live there and it is known as 'one of San Francisco's bedrooms'.

It was named after Bishop Berkeley because of his famous lines "Westward the course of empire takes its way." It is served by two trans-continental trunk lines and is connected by ferry (and electric lines) with San Francisco and with five electric lines with Oakland. The surrounding district is so densely populated that only signs mark where Berkeley's limits end and Oakland, Alameda and other bay cities begin.

Berkeley is the seat of the University of California which has an enrollment of 10,000 students from all over the world. Numerous students from Shanghai and China are there at the present time. Miss Norma Perkes, sister of Mr. Charles Perkes, is a student there at the present time and living with her mother and sister at the Claremont Hotel.

The city is noted for the beauty of its homes, many of which have been destroyed by the fire according to dispatches, as well as the numerous and splendid building of the university. Because of its location Berkeley has the benefit of the San Francisco and Oakland fire departments which will unquestionably limit the fire to the smallest extent.

All units are under orders to assemble early in January off the east coast of Porto Rico for the winter maneuvers which are to be held in the Carribean sea.

Paris, Sept. 17.—The Daily Mail has begun the publication of the report of the French authorities on the contraventions by Germany of the military clauses of the Treaty. The report shows that the General Staff is again in existence under a new direction of militia, and that its chief, General von Stock, has the powers as the former Chief of the General Staff. In 1913 there were 134 depots in existence for the training of Reichswehr; a decree of 1922 fixes their number at 139. There are at present 1,920,000 men who can be mobilised, 450,000 of whom have been instructed in the Imperial Army.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 17.—The Intransigeant, commenting on M. Poincare's speeches yesterday in the Meuse, approves his determination to explain his policy in the event of an agreement with Germany. "We do not accept," the journal adds, "that the consideration of our rights shall be handed over to an international commission or to the League of Nations, whose role is a great one but is not that one. We desire our right, established, according to the Treaty of Versailles, by the Reparations Commission to be respected and we reject all new concessions."

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 17.—M. Le Trocquer, Minister of Public Works, arrived this morning at Duesseldorf on a tour of inspection.

The Inter-Allied Rhineland Commission has issued two ordinances giving to the Inter-Allied Commission of Control of Factories and Mines in the occupied territory powers for the exploitation of mines, the despatch of coal, and the levying of duties, and also authorising the Railway Regie to take all internal measures necessary to secure the policing and exploitation of the system.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 16.—It is reported from Dortmund that strikers today attacked the management of a factory. They received the security police with stones. Two strikers were killed and seven policemen injured. The demonstrators were dispersed.

At Mayence traffic between the Rhineland and unoccupied Germany has been resumed.

The majority of the workers on strike favor resumption under French control.

At Duisburg the employers' associations have granted the German metal-workers an increase of wages owing to the high cost of living and the expenses of families.

Berlin, Sept. 17.—Unemployed workmen in Germany numbered 200,000 on September 1 as against 135,000 on July 1. The number of unemployed has been steadily increasing since the first of this month.

Half of all the industrial works in the nation are now closed on Saturdays.

The German government is paying out 6,000 milliards of marks daily to relieve the distress among the people without work.

Kobe Paper Pleads For Recognition Of Needs Of Foreigners In Quake Zone As Well As Those Of Japanese---Long Credit Facilities Urged

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Sept. 18.—The Japanese relief fund has reached over $8,000,000.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, Sept. 17.—Discussing in an editorial article the foreign relief funds to Japan and the administration of the funds, the Japan Chronicle, which is one of the two foreign-owned newspapers at present being published here, calls attention to the case of the foreign communities of Japan, whose needs, it is hoped, both the donors and administrators will keep in mind.

The paper states: "Foreign countries are showing the greatest generosity in the present crisis, but it is to be hoped that they understand that the people needing help more than others are the pioneers of their own trade, many of whom have lost everything and are at present without resources and will experience the greatest difficulty in keeping their heads above water during the reconstruction period. The help need not be in the form of doles or subsidies, but "generous and easy credits," enabling them to maintain their staffs and to hang on and get a grip on the business that is coming. Help of this kind is expected to bring ultimate benefit to the dispenser as well as to be advantageous to Japan herself.

Tokio, Sept. 16.—The Italian Ambassador had a wonderful escape at Yokohama. He was in the Italian Consulate on the top floor of the Russo-Asiatic Bank building, one of the few buildings which did not fall, when he saw structures collapse all round him. He and the Polish Minister, M. Patek, spent the night in a park sitting in water from burst pipes. The Italian Ambassador subsequently lost M. Patek (who, however, is safe) and proceeded to walk to Tokio. Suffering from thirst he met a police petrol who gave him water. He arrived in Tokio the next day and found that the Embassy had not been burned but had collapsed. The Italian Ambassador is now staying at the Imperial Hotel.

All the documents of the French Embassy were destroyed, including the manuscript of a new book which M. Claudel was writing. After the earthquake the French Ambassador left by motor for Chuzenji where he found his wife safe.

The Dutch Minister, M. Papst, left Tokio after the earthquake for Karuizawa with M. Gronvold, the Norwegian Charge d'Affaires. They lost themselves in the mountains. M. Papst fell down the bank of a river and broke two ribs and fractured his wrist. Both finally reached Karuizawa.

The Swedish Minister is safe at Karuizawa.

The German Ambassador, Dr. Solf, is at Kamakura. His Embassy was nearly destroyed.

The Belgian Minister, M. de Bassompierre, was bathing at Dzushi at the time of the earthquake. He is safe.

Politicians Would Increase Pay To Offset Plan Of Opposition

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 18.—An official message from the Japanese Foreign Office reaching Kobe on September 13 reports that part of the Chinese refugees have already departed for China but 3,000 remain.

At a meeting of the various political bodies of the House of Representatives yesterday evening, it was suggested that the special allowance paid to Members of Parliament for attending the Constitution Conference should be increased from $20 to $60 on the ground that anti-Chihli parties are paying neutral members to absent themselves to prevent a quorum. The proposal met with considerable support. Subsequently it was decided to telegraph to the Members of Parliament at Shanghai, urging them to return to Peking.

A mandate was issued yesterday evening ordering the arrest of General Tsang Chih-ping, Military Commissioner of Amoy, and depriving him of his titles and decorations.

Chinese Is Accused Of Misappropriation

Z. F. Chen, formerly assistant manager of the Central Press, Ltd., appeared before Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Tsang in the Mixed Court yesterday charged with misappropriating monies collected on behalf of the company.

The specific charge is that on July 30 the defendant misappropriated money paid by the Far Eastern Mercantile Agency while acting in the capacity of assistant manager of a collection agency for the complainant company. Mr. W. S. Fleming appeared for the defendant and Mr. C. M. Reece for the complainants. Mr. Chow, acting chairman of the Central Press, gave brief testimony regarding a check for Tls. 200 alleged to have been turned over for goods never received by the Far Eastern Mercantile Agency and the case was then adjourned for a special hearing.

Welseisberger, Dr.

The arrival and registry of more refugees in Kobe has also disclosed that several previously reported dead and missing are safe.

Mr. and Mrs. Brogan and two children have arrived at the Oriental Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Greig (not Grein as previously reported) have also arrived in Kobe. Mr. E. J. Kitching, an Australian reported killed, has registered at the British Consulate, and Mr. Lurcock and family, reported killed, are now reported to have been seen alive in Tokio after the earthquake.

Some doubt also exists concerning the reported death of Miss Joan Grattan. Mr. and Mrs. Grattan have gone to Hongkong with four children and it is believed they have only four children.

Miss Hansa Mehta has arrived in Kobe safe. Admiral Sergueff, reported dead, has also arrived in Kobe, but his wife and daughter are still missing.

Mr. and Mrs. Andersen and two children have also arrived in Kobe on the Dutch steamer Fjiliboet.

Mr. D. Langford, the scientist, is also reported to have been seen alive in Yokohama four or five days after the catastrophe.

Mr. J. F. Owsley is desirious of securing information concerning Mr. V. Holmgren, custodian of the U. S. Naval Depot at Yokohama.

Mr. O. F. Brooks of the Standard Oil Company at Soochow, desires information of Miss Margaret Box of Yokohama, who arrived in Shanghai from Japan on the Empress of Canada.

nry Harrington, unemployed an seaman, was sentenced to months' imprisonment and quent expulsion from the ement by Assessor Jacobs and strate Tsang of the Mixed t yesterday for being drunk disorderly and assaulting a lan and four policemen in the ity of the Victoria Theater day night.

r. Remedios testified that day afternoon Harrington to him, under the influence liquor, and asked for money. witness refused to give him money, but offered to furnish with some clothing and rington left. In the evening tly after 10 o'clock Mr. dios was passing the oria Theater when the accus- ame up to him, made the re- k, "you're the son of a gun refused to give me money afternoon," and struck him he face, causing his nose to d. A Chinese constable and ergeant attempted to arrest rington, but he struck and ed himself free and ran to nsan Road where two Sikhs cled him and were in turn tulted.

Harrington admitted that he ht have committed the as- lts. He was drunk, he said. had had very little to eat iy. He could not remember trouble. He added that he willing to go to work if he id find employment.

Two previous convictions stood inst the accused.

Sanitary Inspector Veit Gets Honorable Acquittal

asked the witness what he had to say about the alleged $410 bribe.

"It is a most malicious allegation—in which the police have assisted," Veit hotly replied. "They well know I am innocent, yet they ordered these charges."

The defendant then described his activities on February 27, 1922, referring to market and slaughter house record books. He would have gone to the slaughter house, he said, at about 1:45 or 2 p.m. The record showed a heavy kill for the day—218 head—and he inspected each of these carcases, together with organs of the beasts and had each stamped. The record showed also that a calf had died during the preceding night and this would necessitate a post mortem to detect possible disease. This would not be done until after the work of inspection had been finished and would take about half an hour. It was impossible, the witness declared, that he could have been at the market at 2:30 or 3 o'clock.

In February 1922, he said, there had been no mention whatever of moving the cooked food stalls, nor was there any discussion of this move until June of this year. A plan of the ground floor arrangement of the market made in November 1922 and stating that the cooked food stalls were to remain in their original positions was produced, signed by the defendant and other Health Department officials.

WAS NOT AT HOME

On April 6, the witness said, he was not at home all day, but was at the market and slaughter house. He declared the allegation regarding the $100 was "a most impertinent lie" attributable to the cooked food dealers' belief that he was responsible for sending them upstairs.

When he was first called to Dr. Davis' office and appraised of the charge against him, Inspector Veit said, the allegation was that the first sum mentioned—$410—was paid to him on February 27, 1922 in his home at 9 North Szechuen Road. He pointed out that at this time he was living in North Thibet Road. Whereupon Dr. Davis called upon the police to make a further investigation, with the result that the $100 bribe allegation was made. The old woman who testified to paying over this money, he said, was one of the most bitter in attacking him when the stalls were moved. She came to him and accused him of accepting $3,000 from Japanese stall holders in consideration of not moving their stalls.

COUNSEL CLASH

Mr. Maitland cross-examined the defendant at some length, clashing with opposing counsel on several occasions. The first of these was when he inquired if the witness had not come to Mukden as a "rat catcher" at Tls. 130 a month from his $1,000 job in Mukden. Veit replied indignantly that he came here to engage in plague prevention work at the invitation of Dr. Stanley, former Health Commissioner, and that he gave up the Mukden job because it was not permanent and he had a chance to join an organised service here. Mr. Priestwood objected strenuously to what he characterised as an unwarranted attempt to belittle the defendant, while Mr. Fleming rose to remark that the "rat catching" mentioned was a work in which many eminent scientists and health experts engaged, including such plague specialists as Dr. Wu Lien-teh.

Finally, after conferring with the Magistrate, the Assessor announced that he could see no use in the case going on. The defendant had established an alibi and the Court could not accept the testimony of the witnesses for the prosecution. The case would be dismissed.

Mr. Fleming asked the Court to stipulate that the defendant was "honorably acquitted" of the charge, and this was ordered.

What is Good BAKING POWDER?

A good baking powder is one that will raise the dough, leaving it sweet, light, wholesome, tender and moist. A still better baking powder is one that does all this and contributes new features of convenience.

Crescent Baking Powder has the added and distinctive feature of containing two leavening ingredients, a fast and a slow one. The first begins to act when the dough is mixed, the second lies inert until oven heat is applied, and only raises while the food is being baked. A feature convenience and most important.

Batters and doughs mixed with Crescent can wait. Biscuits, hot cakes, pastries, may be mixed at any convenient time to be baked just in time for serving. The raise is sure.

Crescent is always uniform in strength and action—made so by scientific certainty. The materials used in Crescent Baking Powder are approved by state and national pure food laws, and for thirty-five years have had the endorsement of the leading food officials, chemists and physicians and domestic science authorities.

THREE MAILS FROM AMERICA DUE TO ARRIVE THIS WEEK

Mail Goes On President Lincoln This Morning

The next mail for the United States will be sent on the President Lincoln this morning, and three trans-Pacific liners are arriving from America this week.

The Lincoln arrived at Woosung from Hongkong last evening, and will sail for San Francisco via Japan ports and Honolulu today. The tender with outgoing passengers for Woosung will leave the Customs Jetty at 10 o'clock this morning, and mail closes at 8 a.m.

The President McKinley, the first of the three coming from America, will dock at the China Merchants' Central Wharf about o'clock this morning. The liner will shift its berth to the [illegible] Oil Wharf, Pootung, early Friday morning, and sails for Hongkong and Manila at 11 a.m. Passengers so desiring may go on board the McKinley at the Central Wharf on Thursday night, and for the benefit of those not so desiring, a tender has been arranged to leave the Customs jetty at 9 o'clock, Friday morning.

The next to arrive from the States will be the President Wilson, which was to leave Kobe yesterday and arriving in port tomorrow morning. The Empress of Russia is the last to arrive in this week.

The Russia is due at Woosung at 8 o'clock Friday night, and sails for Hongkong direct Saturday evening. The tender with inbound passengers is expected at the Customs jetty about 10.30 p.m. Friday, and the outgoing tender with passengers for Woosung will leave at 2.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Following the sailing of the Dongola yesterday, the next mail for Europe will go on the Blue Funnel steamer Mentor tomorrow. The tender with outbound passengers for the Mentor will leave the Customs jetty at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Bringing the European mail, the P. and O. vessel Nellore is expected to leave Hongkong at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, and is due to arrive in Shanghai on Wednesday, September 26. The Angers of the French Mail, which will arrive at Saigon from Marseilles tomorrow, is expected in Shanghai on September 29.

THOSE ISOLATED KITCHENS

Renting agents expatiate on the benefits of the divorced kitchen. "The house is kept free of odors," and "absolute privacy from one's servants is assured," they prattle. They do not mention the difficulties of serving hot soup in the winter time when the boy must carry the potage from the kitchen through the courtyard where the gentle snow or rain is falling, to the dining-room.

Sometimes, in fact quite often the kitchen is not only detached by a courtyard but separated by a flight of stairs and a long hall from the place where one gathers 'round the festive board. When a servant isn't busy getting pneumonia he is in a fair way to get all run down from his constant marathoning between the cook and the guests. Of course relays of servants and an elaborate hoisting and trolly system might be arranged but time is an important factor when one is hungry.

The word garden is a misnomer. What is generally meant is a two by two square of faded grass whose only excuse for being is to lend support to a couple of bamboo poles to uphold the wash.

And the garage—rental extra or tenant can sub-let—is just the size to accommodate the baby pram or one of those speedy little Mutt and Jeff roadsters that can hide in a sewer pipe to escape the traffic cops.

Well, the evening paper has come in and I've got to answer some more ads. We're going out to see a real winner tomorrow. More later.—IRENE.

REPORT SABOTAGE

(Reuter's Service)

Amsterdam, Sept. 17.—A train of 64 empty trucks was set in motion at Kladeukirchen and crashed into the station of Venloo. Considerable damage was done but there were no casualties. It is thought to have been an act of sabotage.

estates in the Malay Peninsula and in Ceylon can only export 60 percent of what they produced during the year, November 1919 to October 31, 1920. This takes off five percent for the three months August to October, or 1¼ percent from the annual crop, which may be taken for the restricted area at 270,000 tons. If the price of rubber does not average on the London market 1s. 6d. during the quarter ending October 31 no relief will be granted the rubber plantations.

AMERICAN DEMAND

There is no sign of any slackening of the American demand. In fact, it is expected to increase shortly and the effect of this, should it eventuate will be to send the price of the raw product at over 1s. 6d. per pound. How far quotations will run no one can say. At least runaway rates should not be expected, for the Stevenson Restriction scheme has been framed to prevent this by means of releases of five to ten percent.

Stadium To Stage Big Wrestling Show Tonight; Billy Tingle Is In City

Bantam Weight Champion Of Orient To Meet Garcia, De Dios, Carletos And Tredwell, Which Is Guarantee Of Good Scraps Here

Tonight, at the Stadium, there is to be a wrestling show, with Kavsadzu and "an unknown in a black mask" as the chief maulers. These two scale in the neighborhood of a quarter of a ton in the aggregate. Kavsadzu styles himself the champion of Russia, and has a lot of belts, sashes and other regalia emblematic of the championship to support his claims. He is so confident of his ability to flatten the unknown tonight that he offers to give the latter all his trophies and regalia in the event he loses.

The semi-final will consist of a wrestling bout between Murmitz and Baumeister, and in addition there will be two other wrestling matches, and also two boxing bouts.

Manager Sullivan says it will be a fine program with plenty of action.

With the arrival yesterday of Billy Tingle, bantamweight champion of the Orient, fight fans will soon be privileged to look upon some real battles at the Stadium. Tingle comes to fill four engagements, with Garcia, de Dios, Carletos and Tredwell, and if he can wade through that quartet without being flattened there are plenty of fans here who will rise up with one accord to announce to the world that he is some scrapper. The Stadium devotees here will be particularly interested in seeing what happens when Billy clashes with a young gentleman by the name of Faustino de Dios, who last Friday dropped Kid Carletos for the count of ten, with a hundred or so thrown in for good measure.

Those who saw Friday's fight are pretty well convinced that anyone of Faustino's weight who can take his measure will have to be something of a super scrapper. Tingle will also have his hands full when he bumps into Kid Carletos. The Kid finished second last Friday, it is true, but it was a close second—so close that if he and the boy who licked him had been cigaret papers there wouldn't have been much daylight between them as they went under the wire.

Tingle is a dapper chap, but husky looking. He expressed himself as being confident of winning his four scheduled battles here, and said he would start working out immediately.

NAVY "Y'S" FINE NEW SWIMMING POOL IS OPENED

Chief Petty Officer M. S. Douglas Has First Dip

The swimming pool of the Navy Y. M. C. A. was officially opened at 3 p.m. yesterday by Executive Secretary P. W. Brown and Physical Director A. W. Hazard.

As soon as the news of the opening was announced the first group of nine U. S. Naval men made a wild dash and entered the pool with a great splash.

To Chief Petty Officer M. S. Douglas belongs the honor of being the first to enter this fine pool, the other Naval men were H. C. Griffin, Alex. Brounstin, J. H. Crory, J. Wilson, J. S. Edgar, P. R. Smyth, G. L. Mysonhimer and B. H. Reeder.

This pool is to be used by Naval men only and is considered one of the best in the Orient. It is 60 feet long by 20 feet wide. The greatest depth is 8 ft. 7in. and at the shallow end 5 feet. It takes 50,000 gallons of water to fill the tank. The bottom and sides and the entire room is of white tile. Three lines are marked on the bottom of the tank in black tile for swimming races. A spring board is in place at the deep end. The top of the room is high enough for plain and fancy diving.

The water passes through filters taking about 22 hours to fill, after the tank is once filled there is a constant flowing of water through filters which insures clean water at all times. Just off the pool room is locker and shower rooms. A room for boxing and wrestling is just off the shower room and when a man is through exercising the pool is handy for a swim.

There are attendants at hand at all times who are capable swimmers which insures complete safety for the users of this pool.

The entire Asiatic Fleet of the U. S. Navy has been waiting for the swimming pool to be finished and when they arrive here in Shanghai there will sure be a great splash at the Navy Y.M.C.A.

QUELL REVOLT IN ASIA MINOR; 82 ARE KILLED

Rebels Are Routed By Emir Abdullah; Leave Dead Behind

(Reuter's Service)

Jerusalem, Sept. 17. — Emir Abdullah's troops have quelled the revolution in Trans-Jordania. The revolutionaries were routed and fled. They left 82 dead, including some chiefs, after a fierce engagement.

(Reuter's Service)

Jerusalem, Sept. 17.—It is authoritatively reported that a revolution has broken out in Trans-Jordania against Emir Abdullah, to whom the British Government recently granted control of the territory, which is geographically part of the Palestine Mandate but was made a stepping-stone in the British policy of facilitating the formation of an independent Arab confederation.

Emir Abdullah, who is a son of King Hussein and a brother of the Emir Feisul, led his armies during the war against the Turks.

Emir Abdullah's official organ recently foreshadowed a campaign for the establishment of the Caliphate in Mecca, claiming the right to settle the personality of the Caliph on the ground that the Arabs are the presentday guardians of Islam.

Later.—The Adwan and Belka tribesmen who attacked Emir Abdullah's camp are reported to have sustained heavy losses.

RIVAL TROOPS STARTED FIGHT ABOARD VESSEL

Details Of Attack Made On Yiyang Maru Received At Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 18.—Reliable information reaching Peking throws light on the attack on the Yiyang Maru at Fowchow, which is the headquarters of the Kweichow soliders who recently deserted General Yang Sen, going over to the south.

These troops, entrenched about a mile along the river bank, had been stopping and searching all steamers to ascertain if they were carrying ammunition to General Yang Sen at Chungking. On this occasion the Yiyang Maru was carrying ammunition and arms but it is doubtful whether the captain was aware of this fact or whether they had been smuggled on board lower down the river.

A representative of General Yang Sen with a bodyguard was on board looking after the ammunition but southern spies on board communicated with the troops on shore with the result that two boatloads of Kweichow troops put out from the river bank and ordered the ship to stop. The Japanese captain was prepared to stop but General Yang Sen's men ordered him to rush past Fowchow which he refused to do, whereupon a northern sergeant shot him dead and himself jumped overboard.

The boatloads of Kweichow soldiers scrambled on board and a general melee ensued in which the Japanese chief engineer and one Japanese passenger were shot dead. Six Chinese members of the crew, including General Yang Sen's supercargo, were also killed and eight others wounded. The Yiyang Maru was completely gutted and lies at Fowchow in a helpless condition. Seeing what happened to the Yiyang Maru, the Yungyang Maru slipped anchor and returned to Ichang.

A resolution will be forwarded to the Government urging it to do its utmost to prevent foreign control, though it was pointed out that as yet the Government has received no note from the Diplomatic Corps stating the latter's proposals and there are the fear of foreign control of railways may prove to be

Sun Yat-sen's Forces Gain Ground; Fail To Take Chen Stronghold

New Taxes Are Levied In Effort To Raise War Funds, And Hard Times And High Cost Of Living Are Attributed To Constitutionalists

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Sept. 14.—The latest reports to official sources from Western Kwangtung show that the "Constitutionalist" forces under Dr. Sun Yat-sen have been successful in their operations against General Chen Chiung-ming and his followers, although the city of Waichow, General Chen's stronghold, has not yet fallen in spite of its having been besieged for the last three months.

The Constitutionalists are putting forth every effort to capture Waichow as they believe that once General Chen can be got out of the way, their task will be easy and that they can soon suppress the troubles in the four lower Prefectures of Kwang, the Ko-Lui and Yam-Lim circuits of the Province, and the island of Hainan.

It is well recognised in Canton that Dr. Sun Yat-sen and the Kuomintang must be successful in the East River districts before they can rehabilitate themselves in Canton.

NEW TAXES

In their effort to raise war funds during the last few months, in addition to the sale of public lands and buildings and the confiscation of temples and monasteries belonging to the people and the several religious orders, numerous new taxes and likins have been inaugurated, and all the present hard times and high cost of living are, of course, being laid to the charge of Dr. Sun and his party. The Kuomintang have had to obtain money to maintain their mercenary army, the Yunnanese, and are disregarding the sufferings of the people for the time being, although Dr. Sun Yat-sen promises that, as soon as the military situation is under control, he will formulate a reconstruction program which will improve the political, social, and economic life of Kwangtung. Until that day comes, the Cantonese have to suffer under the high cost of living and endure the crime wave which is prevailing as result of the presence in the province of large numbers of superfluous troops without means of maintenance, except such as are derived from protecting the opium traffic and gambling and from acts of piracy along the various trade rivers.

HELP JAPANESE

The war and floods in Kwangtung, however, do not blind the eyes of the Cantonese to the greater sufferings of their neighbour Japan. The students and laborers in Canton, once the most effective agents for the promotion of anti-Japanese movements, have become the most active workers on the Japanese Relief Committee here in co-operation with merchants and officals. Dr. C. C. Wu, Secretary of Foreign Affairs to Dr. Sun Yat-sen, is chairman of the committee. The committee is laboring in many ways to raise funds for the relief and the accomodation of Chinese in particular in Yokohama and Tokio.

The court-martial of Tien-tow Cheng, alleged embezzler of some $6,000,000 of public funds while Managing Director of the Provincial Bank of Kwangtung and Commissioner of Finance of the province, was concluded last week. The decision has not yet been published, but it is understood that the judgment was against him. Mr. Cheng, when Managing Director of the Bank, was empowered to issue notes. It is alleged that when he had to leave the bank owing to the change of regime in Canton on June 16, 1922, he took with him some $6,000,000 worth of notes. This sum he should have returned to the party when Dr. Sun resumed power early in 1923 but, it is alleged, he failed to do so.

Big Contributions Made To Japan Relief Funds

AND
GENERAL VIEWS OF TOKIO and YOKOHAMA AFTER THE EARTHQUAKE

"Beyond The Earthquakes" Subject Of Sermon Here

The first sermon of the year at Shanghai College was preached last Sunday morning by Dr. Edwin M. Poteat. The student audience was probably the largest body of students that ever attended a service in the college chapel for the number is now well over 600, being the largest number ever enrolled.

Dr. Poteat based his address on the recent disaster in Japan, and said that the civilised world had been shocked physically and emotionally by that terrible holocaust. He then announced his topic to be: "Beyond the Reach of Earthquakes."

The sympathy of all China for the sufferers was pointed out as an example of how the world had been moved in the face of the terrible tragedy to Japan. The speaker pointed with pride to the revelation of the spirit of the Chinese people, who, in spite of the Twenty-One Demands of Japan, had rallied to the aid of their stricken neighbor.

Dr. Poteat took the recent earthquake as a prime example of the helplessness of man in the grip of the Titan Nature. He described the completeness of the supposedly impregnable vaults of some of the larger American cities and pictured the ease with which a quake of the extent of the one in Japan would rend them asunder. All knowledge and science cannot prevent destruction by this potent force of nature, declared the speaker.

An ideal picture of the glories of human nature and its comparison with the baseness of that ilk was drawn for the assembly. Classic instances of self sacrifice of men during past disasters were pointed out. Other examples of the meanness of self preservation at the cost of life to others were compared with them. Only calamity can furnish proof that some hold life dearest and others honor, declared Dr. Poteat.

"Science can explain nothing," said the speaker, as he mentioned the various explanations that would be offered for the earthquake. He did not attempt to belittle the scientific theories that would be promulgated but said that while science could probably trace the development of the forces that caused the quake, it could not answer the fundamental question of why.

Dr. Poteat said that the rumor of September 25 did not concern him even if it were received as a true prophecy. He recalled having heard a certain man at Kuling during the summer months pick out September 23 as the date for the destruction of the world. He added that he supposed the Kuling speaker had now arranged his date to coincide with the new prophecy.

The counsel of faith was exorted as the only way to find safety from such terrible disasters as the recent visitor to Japan. To those who said that the recent holocaust has been the work of the devil, Dr. Poteat answered that he would like not to have been in such close communion with his Satanic Majesty.

There are two worlds, said Dr. Poteat, the world of matter and the world of the spirit: one temporary and the other permanent. We are all in both. Build your house in the eternal, counseled the speaker. "You in coming to college are investing in things of the spirit. In that manner only can you get beyond the reach of the earthquake, declared Dr. Poteat.

The throne of the Emperor of Japan shook the other day, said the speaker. Faith adds new worlds. The throne of God can never be shaken. The foundations of the throne are righteousness and truth; and love is its law. love abideth for ever. "You are as alive unto God, alive for evermore. You are forever beyond the reach of earthquakes. You can from your home in the heart of God watch the wreck of worlds without a twinge of fear."

In conclusion the speaker quoted from the twenty-eighth verse of the twelfth chapter of Hebrews: "Let us give thanks that we are citizens of a kingdom that cannot be shaken."

September 18th, 1923.

Spot and forward bar silver were each up 3-16d in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 64⅝ cents and the London-New York cross rate declined to 454¼.

The only changes in our official quotations here today were a rise in the Franc rate to 1215 and a drop in the Rupee rate to 299½.

Our market here today did not follow the London price of silver, being easy throughout the day.

Business in Sterling at one time was done as low as 3-17-16 September 3-1⅝ October and 3-1⅛ November-December deliveries.

Gold Dollars were done at 70⅝ for near delivery and 70¾ for forward.

At the close, however, the market was a shade steadier with good sellers at these rates.

There was a good demand for Yen today for near delivery, of which there were no sellers at better than 68½ with buyers at 68⅝.

Banks were quoting 3-2⅛, 72½ and 1260 for Sterling, Gold Dollar and Franc bills respectively.

India bought silver heavily in London yesterday and China sold, the market closing steady. New York report their market as steady also.

Every Morning at Breakfast take a draught of SANATOGEN

This will give you that extra nerve-energy which makes you feel "fit" and fresh all day and it will save you from Heat prostration

SANATOGEN in the morning means a better day's work—means that you feel brighter, fresher, and keener all day, in spite of the exhausting heat, while your powers of resistance to typhoid, cholera, dysentery and nervous disorders will be enormously increased.

TRY IT.

SANATOGEN'S power to increase nerve-energy has been definitely proved, in the words of Sir Charles A. Cameron. C.B., M.D., etc. President of the Royal Institute of Public Health:—

Sanatogen is an excellent nerve-food of the highest nutritive value, easily and completely digested.

GET A BOTTLE TO-DAY

ALL CHEMISTS SELL SANATOGEN

Never forget that Sanatogen is a food, not a medicine or a "secret remedy." It increases nerve-energy by feeding the nerves—not by goading them with drugs or stimulants. Its action is as natural as that of any ordinary food: it must do good, and it cannot do harm. That is why doctors give it even to babies. And that is why so many Europeans in the East take Sanatogen regularly, all the year round—not as an occasional "tonic," but as a part of their daily diet. You should do likewise, if you want to keep your nerve-energy at the highest pitch, and to avoid the debilitating effects of the great heat

Hands Across The Border

WHEN the late President Harding made a neighborly call at Vancouver, on the way home from Alaska, citizens of the British Columbia port gave him a right hearty Canadian greeting, comments the Christian Science Monitor. In the late President's response to an address of welcome, he made reference to what he termed the "ancient bugaboo" of annexation. He probably had no knowledge, when speaking of it, that just recently there has been some alarmist whispering of the possibility of the loss of Canadian national independence, owing to the trend of Canadian migration to the United States.

There are economic reasons, temporary in character, that account for this southward movement from Canada. But there is no weakening of Canadian national sentiment. It is rather more pronounced than ever. Hence when President Harding innocently, and humorously, touched upon the subject of annexation, to dismiss it as an "ancient bugaboo," he made a timely hit with the patriotic Canadian people.

As the President said, the people of the United States have all they can manage now, "and room enough and to spare for another 100,000,000 before approaching the intensive stage of existence of many European states." He went on to express the sentiment of the American people, saying: "No; let us go our own gaits along parallel roads; you helping us and we helping you. So long as each country maintains its independence and both recognise their independence, those paths cannot fail to be highways of progress and prosperity." With such an understanding between neighbors, the Canadian people spontaneously clasp the proffered right hand of "true faith and good fellowship."

Words From The Lips Of Wise Men

Hunting after arguments to make good one side of a question, and wholly refusing those which favor the other, is to far from giving truth its due value that it wholly debases it.

Books are the food of youth, the delight of old age, the ornament of prosperity and the refuge and comfort of adversity.

Were we as eloquent as angles, yet we should please some men much more by listening than by talking.

To secure a contended spirit, measure your desires by your fortunes, and not your fortunes by your desires.

Folly disgusts us less by her ignorance than pedantry by her learning.

The treaty must be executed says Premier Poincare. They always want somebody's head over there.

Fiume is again attempting to live up to its name.

Hongkong Dollar.
Mexican Dollar.

REMARKABLE REMARKS

"Would that I had the tongue of Daniel Webster and the brain of Chief Justice Marshall to unravel this most intricate subject!"—Judge C. S. Franklin.

We were just saying what wonderful strides the Germans were making in weight-carrying aviation when we noticed that the plane was carrying 5,500,000,000,000 MARKS.

Our apologies! The pome in yesterday's Chin Chin was by no means original, but by that famous versifier, Arthur Guiterman. The column was tight and the inspired make-up man merely dropped the signature, to make room. If we could write poetry we would. We can't. Hence here's another by Mr. Guiterman:

A PROVERBIAL TRAGEDY

The Rolling Stone and the Turning Worm
And the Cat that Looked at a King
Set forth on the Road that leads to Rome—
For Youth will have its Fling,
The Goose will lay the Golden Eggs,
The Dog will have his Day,
And Nobody locks the Stable Door
Till the Horse is stol'n away.

But the Rolling Stone, that was never known
To Look before the Leap
Plunged down the hill to the Waters Still
That run so dark, so deep;
And the leaves were stirred by the Early Bird
Who sought his breakfast where

Militarism And Public Opinion

The death of General Chang Hsun removed from the Republic one of its most picturesque figures, says the Peking Daily News. The life of this man, who was at one time—only six years ago—one of the most feared militarists in China, offers much food for reflection and encouragement to those who are despaired of the future of China on account of the rule of militarism now prevailing. To careful observers of Chinese men and affairs, tuchunship is not and can not be a lasting feature of Chinese politics. It is not founded on a solid basis and as a matter of fact it has no foundation to rest on at all. The armed mobs they control may crumble away any minute. While their power lasts, they are great figures to be considered with, and no doubt they have a great deal to do with moulding the affairs of the nation. But the history of the 12 years of the Republic is but a parade of succeeding militarists failing one after another. The most powerful of all, Yuan Shih-kai, fell in a short struggle against public will. Tuan Chi-jui after the death of Yuan Shih-kai, was one of the two greatest warlords, but he was no more able to withstand public opinion as could his predecessor. He too fell. Chang Hsun is another case in point.

All these show unmistakably the power of Chinese public opinion, which though only partly articulate, and very slow to take effect, is nevertheless great enough to break the most powerful. Great militarists may be able to affront public opinion with seeming impunity, but in the end they will have to pay the price. It has been the view of some of the enlightened Chinese people that the day will soon come when the militarists themselves will find out that it does not pay to do things against the will of the people. Signs of this state of affairs are already appearing. Witness the great endeavor of all the powerful militarists to justify their action—right or wrong—on the ground of constitution and legality.

In a way the political crisis of the last few months has shown the enlightenment on this point that has come to some of the military leaders. If the present situation had taken place in Yuan Shih-kai's time, there is no question that Yuan would have grasped the opportunity to take over the reins of government, whether he were elected to the presidency or not, or whether Parliament had a quorum or not. He would have the excellent pretext that necessity knows no law. The country during the last few months and even now is in the greatest need of leadership. With the M. P's. playing hide and seek, shifting their operations from Peking to Shanghai and from Shanghai back to Peking to get all that could be gotten out of the situation, militarists of the cast of mind of a few years ago would long ago have lost patience and taken things into their own hands to shape according to their wish. But conditions have changed. Some of the militarists have marked the change, and are trimming their sails accordingly. Such a state of affairs we must consider as a sign of encouragement, dark though the situation of China be.

General Chang Hsun by his bold stroke for the restoration of the monarchy and his sad and merited failure has contributed much to the enlightenment that we have discerned in some of the present militarists. The failure of Yuan Shih-kai together with the downfall of Tuan Chi-jui and Chang Hsun has brought to the consciousness of the militarists that after all there is another power much greater than arms—this power is irresistible and when it comes it comes like the Japanese earthquake, swift and certain—it breaks the sword of the militarists as easily as breaking a reed.

As a typical case of the passing away of militarism, we reproduce below the life of General Chang Hsun, the pigtailed Inspector General of the Yangtsze Valley whose power was brought home to foreigners and Chinese alike by his pigtailed armed hordes stationed astride the Tsinpu line, and the peculiar fondness of his troops to ride in the first class coupes of the Tsinpu trains.

CHANG HSUN

General Chang was born at Fenghsin Hsien, Kiangsi Province, in 1857. He started his military career as a mere soldier and showed much bravery in many encounters with bandits. He was gradually promoted to be Commander of a Regiment and then Defence Commissioner.

Upon the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese War General Chang, being then one of the commanders of the Provincial Army of Fengtien moved his troops to Chang Tu Fu for defence purposes. In February 1908 he was appointed the Commander-in-Chief of the Yunnan Provincial Army but he did not assume office. In September of the same year he was made Commander-in-Chief of the Kansu Provincial Army.

In 1911 General Chang was transferred to be Commander-in-Chief of the Kiangnan (south of Yangtsze) forces, with headquarters at Nanking and permission to wear the Yellow Jacket, a great honor from the Imperial Family at that time.

General Chang was in command at Nanking when the first revolution broke out and that city was attacked by the revolutionary forces. He effected a masterly retreat to the northern bank of the Yangtsze although he had no war ships at his disposal. Thereafter he commandeered practically all the available rolling stock of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway, using it as a portable camp for his forces. He was made Viceroy of the Liangkiang Provinces as an inducement to retake them for the Imperial Family. He continued to occupy important points upon the railway for months after the abdication of the Manchus, although he was offered commands in Tibet and elsewhere.

Upon the outbreak of the Second Revolution in July 1913, General Chang was appointed by President Yuan Shih-kai the Pacificator of Kiangsu and he recaptured Nanking from the hands of the revolutionists on September 1, 1913. Two days later he was appointed the Tutuh of Kiangsu and was subsequently made full General. In December of the same year was succeeded by Feng Kuo-chang and himself was promoted to be High Military Inspector of the Yangtsze Provinces which position he held until July 1917. In June 1914 he was appointed Field Marshal.

In December, 1915, General Chang was made Duke of the First Order by Yuan Shih-kai who was then at the zenith of his attempt to make himself emperor of China. In April 1916 General Chang was appointed to hold concurrently the position of the Director-General of the Military Affairs of Anhui Province. Two months later when the Tuchun system was initiated, to take the place of Director General, he was appointed Tuchun of Anhui with headquarters at Hsuchowfu, on the Tientsin-Pukow line.

In May 1917, when Marshal Tuan Chi-jui was relieved of the premiership and all the provincial militarists stood against President Li Yuan-hung, General Chang was summoned by President Li to Peking to solve the situation. He, representing the militarists, insisted upon the dissolution of Parliament which was actually carried out.

However, General Chang taking advantage of this opportunity proclaimed the restoration of the Manchu Dynasty and seated the boy-emperor on the throne again on July 1, 1917. President Li took refuge in the Legation Quarter and Marshal Tuan was secretly ordered by President's mandate to assume command of available troops to stand out against the monarchical forces. General Chang's troops in Peking were overwhelmed and on July 13 he took refuge in the Dutch Legation where he remained until he was pardoned by President Hsu Shih-chang in October 23, 1918.

Ever since that time, General Chang has been living quietly in Tientsin where he owns several palatial residences. He was however appointed Commissioner of Forestry and Agriculture for 1921. It is said that he did not take much interest in that appointment.

TRAM INSPECTORS

Editor, CHINA PRESS:

Sir: It seems to me that the Shanghai Tramway Company have at last received a lesson after the decision given by the British Court in the case "Police vs. Shanghai Trams." They have tried to undertake some improvements.

Early yesterday afternoon a foreign inspector of the Tramway Co. halted a tram, Route No. 6 at the Bund. It was fully loaded with passengers. The car was to stop at the corner of Nanking Road and the Bund, and in spite of its overcrowding, several still try to mount when it came to the stopping spot. Occasionally a foreign inspector of the tramway's came and performed his duty: He first prohibited those from mounting, and then spoke to 2 foreigners who were riding on the footboard of the first class: "Get down. Another car is coming; this is too overcrowded." Meanwhile turning to another three Chinese travelling on the platform, he pulled them off the car and spoke rudely to them: "Chee! Chee!"

They descended from the car and the inspector himself mounted on it, and set off.

I rather wonder why this Mr. Inspector should treat those Chinese "Tram Users" in such a manner. Do they not pay their fares?

I sincerely hope that the management of the Shanghai Tramway's will pay a little attention to this point. Yours faithfully,

"CHEE"

Sept. 18, 1923.

PIDGIN ENGLISH

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Dear Sir:

Pidgin English has many points which justify its existence. In six weeks after setting foot in China, the foreigner ought to be able to grasp enough "Pidgin" to make himself understood. It was most useful for the new-comer in former years to learn, for he did not have to go through the tedious mill of learning Chinese, but at the same time he, quite naturally, even without knowing it, was acquiring a useful knowledge of Chinese grammar and idioms which would assist him greatly, if he should later on take up the study of Chinese. Yes, it is a pity that Pigdin English has become undignified for the better class Chinese to speak.

In years gone by the Taipan talked Pidgin (Business) with his compradore, and million tael transactions were settled in this jargon without a written contract. Each understood the other without legal clauses, and all was well. Today's compradores are not of the same type. Yes, they know English, or anyhow profess to do so, but really they waste too much precious time in arriving at an agreement, and then often neither the taipan nor the compradore have understood each other properly. The heart to heart talk between the two parties is absent. The present day Taipan does not speak pidgin. He thinks he would insult the compradore if he tried to, and the compradore's indifferent knowledge of English often requires long drawn out explanations for which perhaps the aid of an interpreter is even requisitioned, and thus of the conversation loses much of its merit. Many things of confidential nature remain unsaid, and there is not the ease that bridges over so many apparent difficulties.

In the household "Pidgin" was indispensible, if you wished to speak to any of the servants. But now, how different! The houseboy may understand you, but the green horns of house coolies have to get the "Steward" every time to come along and explain to them what you want. The present day houseboy with a smattering knowledge of "Plop English" does not as a rule desire to remain in his capacity for any length of time. When he has in his spare time mastered his English primer, he will approach his master if "have got" an office job for him.

Often in Chinese shops a foreigner will experience great difficulty in making himself understood. There may be somebody in the shop who knows a bit of English, and much time is wasted to get the people to understand what is wanted. Yang King Pang or Pidgin English is easy to learn, and the customer could without over much difficulty explain his requirements.

Pidgin English is spoken all along the coast and up river in many variations. It is in fact spoken in the whole East, from India to Japan. Even Chinese, owing to the differences in their dialects, can converse in Pidgin, and actually often do so, to make themselves understood to each other. It has had its uses in the past, and should not be allowed to die out. It is expressive, and certainly an easy means for direct conversation. Learn it! But how? Well, just go ahead and speak it. For most people it is but a waste of time to attempt learning Chinese, apart from the fact that the average young man has no inclination to do so, after office hours, when sport and social obligations leave but little time to spare. To learn Chinese requires an energy that only few foreigners here in the East possess, and unless one is prepared to put one's heart wholly to its study, it will be a failure.

I personally speak various Chinese dialects, but know the difficulties foreigners have who have tried to learn Chinese. Therefore I advocate that many should rather devote themselves to learning Pidgin English. I am, dear Sir, Yours very truly,

H. Kliene.

Is Sight Confined To The Eyes?

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

If the alleged facts recently brought to light concerning "extra-retinian" or "paroptic" vision are true, then man is a far more wonderful animal than he has hitherto supposed himself to be. But there are so many false trails for the investigator of any new subject like this that a healthy skepticism is the safest state of mind, not only for onlookers, but for the investigator himself.

About five years ago Louis Farigoule, a Frenchman, began to communicate to certain men of science the curious results that he had been obtaining by experiments on the power which some persons seem to possess of seeing without the use of their eyes. Finally he wrote a book on the subject in which he maintained that man has a "paroptic sense" which is capable of impressing upon the brain consciousness of the existence of surrounding objects similar to that afforded by the ordinary optical apparatus of the eyes. In other words, the exterior of the body appears to receive impressions from light which may produce upon the nervous system the effect of vision, which is commonly supposed to be productive only with the aid of the lenses and the retina of the eyes.

Farigoule's experiments have been taken up by others who report that they have attained similar results. An interesting synopsis, showing the present state of the investigation, is given by Jean Labadie in the "Revue de Paris" for June 15, 1923. Labadie himself has successfully experimented with persons apparently possessing the paroptic sense. Such persons, when precautions have been taken which seem to exclude all possibility of any use of the eyes, are able to perceive both the colors and the forms of objects with absolute precision.

Of course, the power of perception is exercised only by parts of the body that are exposed to light, and not covered by clothing. More or less extensive portions of the epidermis may be employed in the experiments, as for instance the whole or part of a cheek, or the nostrils, which seem specially sensitive to color.

The principal facts thus far claimed to have been demonstrated are: (1) Paroptic vision is a natural faculty of the human being. (2) Light, in the ordinary sense of the word, is the agent that produces paroptic vision. (3) The usual appearances of objects, as to opacity, transparency, reflection from mirrors, etc., are perceived and interpreted by paroptic vision in the same way as by ocular vision. (4) Variations in the intensity of the light have sensibly the same effect as in ordinary vision, except that vision shows more pronounced "nyctalopy," i.e., a tendency to see clearer as the light fades. (5) In color perception paroptic vision seems to extend futher toward the ultra-violet than ocular vision.

(6) Neither touch nor any other of the ordinary senses has anything to do with paroptic vision.

(7) The entire periphery of the body is capable of paroptic vision, provided that a certain minimum extent is included. The precise amount of surface required varies with the region concerned. The vision improves in proportion as more numerous or broader regions of the periphery are brought into play.

(8) The scale of size is the same as in ordinary vision.

(9) Localisations in space by paroptic and ocular vision differ in the direction of their axes by a constant angle whose value is comprised between 30 and 90 degrees.

(10) Paroptic perception of the contents of space is successive before becoming simultaneous. The range of paroptic vision increases little by little with use, by a phenomenon of "pseudo-accommodation."

(11) The visual field in paroptic vision is circular. One very curious observation recently reported is that of local fatigue manifested by the tegument concerned in intensified efforts at paroptic seeing. In one case where the cheeks were employed for a long time the subject complained of being no longer able to distinguish objects except intermittently, with "insupportable blinking."

I leave these things without comment to speak for themselves.

HINTS ON CULTURE

"Is the literary editor in?"

The sporting editor looked up from the paper he was reading, and saw a vision of female loveliness about 20 years of age, with soft blue eyes, and a heavy mass of golden brown hair arranged to a coiffure of the latest and most becoming style.

"Nope," said the sporting editor, "you can bet your life he ain't in. He's out trying to get bail for having assaulted a man who wrote to the letter Box to ask if ten men could build a house in twenty-seven and one-half days by working eight hours a day, how many buttons would be required for a coat of paint for same house. Did you call to see about a poem, or did you want him to sneak you some coupons for the bicycle contest?"

Neither," said the young lady, with dignity. "I am the secretary of the Young Ladies' Society of Ethical Culture, and I was appointed a committee to call upon the literary editor and consult him as to the best plan for the exercise of our various functions.

"Now that's a good thing," said the sporting editor. "I don't seem to exactly catch on to 'ethical,' but if it's any thing like physical culture you girls are going in for, you've trotted up to the right rack. I can tell you more about the proper way to exercise your functions in one minute than the literary editor can in an hour. He understands all about the identity of the wherefore and the pyramids, but he can't punch the bag, or give you any pointers how to increase your chest measurement. How long has your society been in training?"

"We organised last month," answered the lady, looking at the cheerful face of the reporter rather doubtfully.

"Well, now, how do you girls breathe—with your lungs or with your diaphragm?"

Sir?"

"Oh, you'll have to start in right, and you've got to know how to breathe. The first thing is to keep your chest out, your shoulders back, and go through arm exercises for a few days. Then you can try something like this: Keep the upper part of the figure erect, and standing on one leg, try to—"

"Sir," exclaimed the young lady severely, "you are presumptuous. I do not understand your obscure talk. Our society is not connected with a gymnasium. Our aim is the encouragement of social ethics."

"Oh," returned the sporting editor, in a disappointed tone, "you are on the society and pink tea racket. Sorry. That lets me out. Hoped you were going in for athletics. You could do it so well, too. Take my advise, now, and try that little exercise every morning for a week. You'll be surprised to see how much it will benefit your muscles. As I said, just stand on one—"

Bang! went the door, and the blue-eyed young lady was gone.

"It's a pity," said the sporting editor, "that these girls don't pay some attention to self-culture without that—that ethical part."

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

THE ETERNAL FEMININE

Somewhere in Ohio a man robbed a bank and escaped with his loot. Somewhere in California there was a moving picture actress who was in love with this man. The police kept their eyes on the lady. Eventually they caught the man.

And thus did the eternal feminine triumph again over the best laid plans of a criminal.

Whenever the police want to find a man who has disappeared they look, first, for his women friends. They proceed upon the principle that, sooner or later, he will communicate with them. It has always worked well in the past and it will probably always work well in the future.

A man may be fond of his beard or his mustache and shave it off to avoid detection. He may be fond of smoking or of drinking or of any one of a dozen other habits and give it up in order to avoid being identified. But it seems impossible for him to cut the ties between himself and a woman, if he is fond of her.

The relations between men and women, say what you like of them, form the bulk of life. They lead to great achievements and they lead to great trouble. They cause the greatest happiness and they cause the greatest misery.

In this country, probably due to our puritanic strain, we recogise but two phases of these relations. One is courtship, which, from our standpoint, should be safeguarded by chaperons and other limitations. The other is marriage, which, judging by our divorce statistics, seems to have become a somewhat bungled institution.

But there are many other phases of the relation of the sexes, and it is these other ones that are the most interesting and the most tragic, and, in a way, the most important.

The Latin races deal frankly with the problems which sex relations present. We Americans, whether from a sense of modesty or from hypocrisy, prefer to neglect them. No one has ever claimed that we are a more moral people than the French, the Italians or the Spaniards.

This frank recognition of sex problems is reflected in the literature and art of modern Europe. In both these respects they surpass us.

It might be interesting to inquire whether it is good or bad for a nation to take up boldly the subject of the sexes or to attempt to hide it from the eyes and ears of the young folks. And if it is a matter worth considering it surely ought to be considered in a calm and philosophic spirit, and not at a time when the public is all agog over the murder of a clergyman who was found with another man's wife.

In the Open Desert

Major Blake, describing some of his adventures on the great attempted Round-the-World Air Flight, writes:—

"On several occasions when we were stranded in the desert with little or no food, Bovril was most valuable.

"I recollect one of the bitterly cold nights in the open desert when our escort machine and ourselves had to land miles away from anywhere. We sat huddled up under the machine unable to sleep through cold, until we drained some petrol out of one of the tanks and heated some of our small supply of water. Then we opened up a Bovril tin, enabling us to thoroughly warm ourselves and get a little sleep.

"I cannot overestimate the value of this food to us . . . . I should be extremely loath to undertake a trip of this nature without this food."

"Germany Can Pay Nothing" Say American Economists

(Foreign Press Service)

An economic investigation of the extent to which Germany has paid reparations, and her capacity to make further payments has been made by the Institute of Economics, which is one of the institutions receiving an endowment from the Carnegie Foundation. According to a report prepared on the conclusions reached by the Institute, and soon to be published, Germany can pay nothing. According to a summary of this report, prepared at the request of the New York Times, the Institute's investigators estimate that since the armistice. Germany, in fulfilment of reparations' obligations has parted with goods, money, property and securities worth to her not less than 22,000,000,000 gold marks, or about $5,188,000,000. This is less than Germany contends; but more than France admits, that the Germans have paid. The Allies, according to the Institute's report, acknowledge the receipt, roughly, of $2,000,000,000. On the other hand, Germany claims credit for payments amounting, roughly, to $11,000,000,000.

The discrepancy between these figures is explained, according to the Institute's report, by the fact that the allied powers refused to allow credit for many of the largest items of German delivery. After declaring that Germany "at present can pay nothing," the Institute asserts that "whether she will be able to pay in the near, or even distant, future depends on circumstances over which she has not direct control." It declares that most of the values surrendered by Germany in fulfilment of reparation obligations have been from capital and not income, and that "she has practically nothing left;" that Germany has no more capital to send across the border, no income, except paper marks, which the Allies will not accept, and that the Allies can not collect anything from Germany so long as they refuse to permit Germany to earn, by foreign trade, money acceptable to them.

"The war wiped out all Germany's invisible assets," the report continues. "It led to the seizure of about $3,000,000,000 worth of her $5,000,000,000 of foreign investment by the enemy countries in which they were situated and the cutting off of interest from the rest; later it caused the commandeering and use by the German Government of all except about $250,000,000 worth for the payment of foreign debts. It drove her merchant marine from the seas and ended her large earnings therefrom. It was not until 1922 that any considerable part of these were regained. With the ships, the banking and insurance earnings vanished. The tourists' spendings, of course, ended. In short, the war destroyed all the invisible earnings that during practically all Germany's industrial history had served to neutralize her heavy adverse balance of trade—and it increased that adverse balance 2½ times during the war and holds it today higher than it was before the war.

"In spite of her heavy losses during the war and incidental to the dislocation of her trade and the like, and her appalling fiscal situation at home, Germany has made considerable sacrifices in fulfilment of the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles. Not all of her payments or transfers of property have been made under the reparation account; some have had to do with restitution and many other clauses of the treaty. For example, no reparation credit is given to Germany for quite large payments she has had to make in settlement of the prewar debts of her citizens to the citizens of allied countries on a gold mark basis with seven years' interest, while her own creditors must wait until all the reparation debts of the German Government have been completely settled before any balances can be made available to them.

"If Germany is to be restored to her prewar industrial capacity, she will need three and one-half billion dollars' worth of imports of food and raw materials every year, and to pay for these she must sell the resultant products of her industry for at least three and one-half billions. Only after that can she devote any receipts of foreign money to paying reparations.

The report then takes up the questions of Germany's trade balance, foreign investments, raw materials, taxation and budget. Pointing out that the German government has served as a buffer at every point between the demoralised population and the economic readjustment, it declares that, "even allowing for tax evasion and lack of vigor, it has never been possible for the Government to balance the budget and simultaneously make reparation payments."

Taking up the causes and results of inflation, the report points out that once under way, no means of checking inflation could be found; that eventually paper money will not be worth the cost of sending it to the treasury to be redeemed, and that this was the case with the paper money put forth in the American revolution.

The report then considers the conditions obtaining when France had to pay indemnity to Germany in 1870 and those obtaining today, showing that the Franco-German war was really local, that France, though defeated, could and did borrow easily abroad, whereas Germany can not beyond her own frontiers, and, the report concludes:

The Institute is convinced that the continued exaction of reparation payments under conditions that directly reduce Germany's imports of food and raw materials will not only quickly reduce subsequent payments that can be made, but will also disintegrate the whole economic system of Germany and bring unemployment and starvation to a large part of the German people. The investigations upon which the report is based were made by four or five experts working under the direction of Harold G. Moulton, formerly a professor of the University of Chicago and author or several textbooks, and C. E. McGuire, who was formerly at Harvard and served about seven years with the Inter-American High Commission. Among the members of the board of trustees are Dr. Arthur Hedley, ex-President of Yale, Dr. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard, David Houston, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, and John Barton Payne, Head of the American Red Cross.

The statistical material used in preparing the report was official, as far as it was possible to obtain official material, although in some things it was necessary to depend upon private scientific investigation. One of the difficulties encountered in the beginning, it was said, was the scarcity of German statistical material. Material was sought from the British, French and American Governments also.

The Institute itself, however, is wholly unofficial. It is now engaged in important studies in a dozen different fields including one on Russia and another on the French international debts, but its activities are not by any means confined to international economics. It has studies under way in the fields of tariff making, relations between tariff and industry and relations between captial and labor, among others. Its studies of the capacity of Germany to pay began last December

The Institute of Economics was established in October, 1922, for the purpose of making available material on economic questions for the guidance of public opinion.

Turks Like Linoleum

Constantinople A Promising Market For American Product

Fifty percent of the better class of homes in Constantinople use linoleum as a floor covering according to an estimate of the Department of Commerce, and with a population of more than 1,500,000, which means about 100,000 houses, the requirements amounts to several million square yards of floor coverings. Since it is probable that with the advent of normal conditions, a large amount of new construction will be undertaken, the department states, especially of apartment houses and flats the floors of which are generally of concrete it is believed that American manufacturers of linoleum may find an opportune market in Constantinople which might be investigated with profit.

Not only should there be a demand for floor covering of this type for new buildings, says the department, but also for their replacement in existing structures.

Immediately following the armistice, American linoleums became favorably known in this market, especially "inlaid," but with the depreciation of Turkish currency, cheaper grades from other countries came into demand; but an active sales campaign might prove profitable even with present adverse currency exchange rates, if United States manufacturers could offer a product of better quality for the same price as linoleums sold in that country by other countries.

"An inexpensive but good grade of plain linoleum of a neutral tint with a canvas backing especially suitable for contact with concrete floors should be favorably received, especially on account of its forming a pleasing background for oriental rugs which are the common adornment of all Constantinople interiors," states the report, "Parquet floors are rarely found, being too expensive for the type of construction in vogue.

"A profitable market might even be developed for floor-covering substitutes that could be shipped in powdered form and then mixed and applied to concrete floor surfaces on the site. The introduction of linoleum rugs might also be considered as a profitable sales possibility in the investigation of Constantinople as one of tomorrow's markets for American floor coverings.
